How, where, and for how long is your personal data stored?

How

Data is processed using paper-based and/or electronic systems by internal personnel specifically authorized for this purpose. These individuals are granted access to your personal data only to the extent strictly necessary to perform processing activities related to you.

The Controller periodically reviews the tools used to process your data and the related security measures, which are regularly updated. The Controller also ensures—either directly or through authorized personnel—that no personal data is collected, processed, stored, or retained unnecessarily or for purposes that are no longer valid. The Controller ensures that all data is stored with guarantees of integrity, authenticity, and is used solely for the purposes of the processing actually carried out.

The Controller guarantees that any data found to be excessive or not relevant, including as a result of such reviews, will not be used, except for the lawful retention of the document or record in which such data is contained.

Where

Data is stored in paper, digital, and electronic archives located within the European Economic Area (EEA), with appropriate security measures in place.

How long

Your personal data is retained for the duration necessary to carry out the activities related to the management of the contract entered into with the Controller and to fulfill any related legal obligations.

In any case, the data must be retained (starting from the moment the risk event or data breach is discovered or identified) for the period necessary to notify the competent supervisory authority of the detected breach, in accordance with the procedures implemented by the Controller, and in any case, to take the necessary corrective actions.

Once the purposes that justify the retention of your personal data have been exhausted, the Controller will ensure that such data is deleted or anonymized.

What are your rights?

You have a series of rights that allow you to maintain full control over your personal data. These rights include:

- Access;
- Rectification:
- Erasure:
- Restriction of processing;
- Objection to processing;
- Data portability.

In essence, at any time and free of charge, without specific formalities, you may:

- Obtain confirmation as to whether or not personal data concerning you is being processed by the Controller;
- Access your personal data and learn its origin (when not collected directly from you), the purposes and methods of processing, the data of third parties to whom it is disclosed, and the retention period or the criteria used to determine it;
- Update or rectify your personal data to ensure it is always accurate and up-to-date;
- Request the erasure of your personal data from databases and/or backups when, among other reasons, it is no longer necessary for the purposes for which it was collected or when processing is deemed unlawful, provided that the legal conditions are met; in any case, the request may be granted when there is no other lawful basis for the processing;
- Restrict the processing of your personal data under certain conditions, for example, if you contest the accuracy of the data, for the period necessary for the Controller to verify its accuracy. You will also be informed, within a reasonable timeframe, when the suspension has ended or the reason for the restriction has ceased to exist, and thus when the restriction is lifted;
- Obtain your personal data in electronic format, especially if the processing is based on a contract and carried out by automated means, including for the purpose of transmitting it to another data controller.

The Controller must act on your request without undue delay and, in any case, within one month of receipt. This period may be extended by two additional months where necessary, taking into account the complexity and number of requests. In such cases, the Controller will inform you within one month of receipt of the request, providing the reasons for the delay.

For further information or to submit a request, you can contact: privacy@avrgroup.it

How and when can you object to the processing of your personal data

For reasons related to your particular situation, you may object at any time to the processing of your personal data if it is based on the Controller's legitimate interest, by sending your request to privacy@avrgroup.it
You have the right to have your personal data erased if there is no overriding legitimate reason justifying its continued processing.

To whom can you lodge a complaint?

Without prejudice to any other administrative or judicial remedy, you may file a complaint with the Italian Data Protection Authority (Garante per la protezione dei dati personali), unless you reside or work in another EU Member State. In such cases—or if the data protection violation occurs in another EU country—the competent authority to receive and handle the complaint shall be that of the relevant Member State.

Any updates to this notice will be promptly communicated to you by appropriate means. You will also be informed prior to any changes, in good time to provide your consent if required.
